Risks

It is possible that actual results may differ materially from our projections or expectations due to a variety of factors, including but not limited to:

- changes in economic and business conditions in the world;
- the failure to achieve expected sales levels;
- consolidation among the Company's competitors and customers;
- technology advancements;
- the failure of the Company's suppliers to timely deliver products in accordance with contract specifications;
- changes in interest and foreign exchange rates;
- changes in the Company's customer relationships, including loss of particular business for competitive or other reasons;
- the impact of reductions in the insurance program covering the principal risks to the Company, and other unanticipated events and conditions;
- volatility in raw material and energy prices, including those of steel, petroleum-based products, rubber, and natural gas and the unavailability of such raw materials or energy sources;
- the inability to obtain and maintain price increases to offset higher production or material costs;
- increased competitive activity including actions by larger competitors or low-cost producers;
- the inability to recover the costs to develop and test new products and processes;
- the risks associated with doing business outside of the United States;
- changes in pension expense and/or funding resulting from investment performance of the Company's pension plan assets and changes in discount rate, salary increase rate, and expected return on plan assets assumptions, or changes to related accounting regulations;
- government regulatory initiatives including the TREAD act;
- the impact of labor problems, including a strike brought against the Company or against one or more of its large customers or suppliers;
- litigation brought against the Company including products liability;
- an adverse change in the Company's credit ratings, which could increase its borrowing costs and/or hamper its access to the credit markets;
- changes to the credit markets and/or access to those markets;
- inaccurate assumptions used in developing the Company's strategic plan or operating plans or the inability or failure to successfully implement such plans;
- inability to adequately protect the Company's intellectual property rights;
- failure to successfully integrate acquisitions into operations or their related financings may impact liquidity and capital resources;
- inability to use deferred tax assets;
- recent changes to tariffs on certain tires imported into the United States from the People's Republic of China;
- and changes in the Company's relationship with joint-venture partners.
